NO FRESH MEAT, PATRONS TOLD

CITY MARKETS GLOOMY OVER FUTURE SUPPLY

Independent Grocers, Butchers Plan Meeting Tonight at City Building.

The meat shortage dealt Mansfield a knock-out blow today.

Twelve meat markets told customers they had no fresh meat and no prospects of any. Three others did not answer their telephones, indicating that they might be closed

The W. A. Kearns company, city's largest meat wholesaler, reported no meat in stock and none in sight "until the farmers sell some cattle."

A meeting of all independent grocers and meat dealers in the city has been called for 7:30 tonight in the municipal court room in an effort to find the answer to the critical meat shortage.

C. J. Stecker, secretary of the Independent Grocers' Institute, said OPA regulations will be discussed at the meeting. Discussion is expected to cover general groceries, as well as meat. Stecker said that the session had been called by "several independent grocers who had been discussing the OPA restrictions among themselves."

'Worst Week.'

"This week will be the worst we've seen so far," one butcher said.

Another predicted the meat famine to last until late October when young cattle will be ready for slaughter.

None of the dealers said they expected any meat this week. Some of those who do their own butchering said they were "hopeful," but those who depended on packers said they'd been promised nothing.

Dealers who kept their doors open today for butter and cheese sales, eyed their depleting stocks of fish and chicken as the meat-hungry public made a run on the substitutes.

One dealer reported he sold 75 pounds of perch last Friday and Saturday, largest stock he'd ever had and largest sale he'd experienced.

A spokesman for the Touby meat market said that two packers informed him this morning that they "wouldn't be back for the rest of the month."

Only two dealers of the 12 called today said they had lunch meat. The Haring meat market reported it will be closed for two weeks with the exception of Friday and Saturday when the only stock will be chickens

O. C. Harter, manager of Frosted Foods, Inc., said there had been no meat shipments, and that "the situation will remain as it is until 'they' make up their minds to allow a wider variation of profit among the farmer, Packer and retailer.

Harter added that packers, in many cases, are selling dressed

ASK PAY HIKE

Akron Local to Demand Boost For Rubber Workers.

SAN FRANCISCO —(AP)— The United Rubber Workers of America (CIO) will hear ademand at their annual 10-day convention opening today that contract negotiations for pay increases be reopened at once with the nation's Big Four rubber companies.

George R. Bass, president of Akron, Ohio, Local 5, the union's largest, told newsmen that his local would demand an immediate increase to compensate for what he termed a 50 per cent increase in living costs since contracts were signed last February.

He said his union would call for a reopening of negotiations with Firestone, Goodrich, Goodyear and the U. S. Rubber companies.

Fredericktown CIO Union Joins AFL

CHICAGO —(AP)— Joseph M Jacobs, general counsel for the AFL-Upholsterers International union, said today the AFL group has agreed to absorb about 5,000 members of the rival CIO-United Furniture Workers union, including members of a local at Fredericktown.

The disaffection, Jacobs said followed resignation of Morris Muster, president of the United Furniture Workers, who charged that the union was controlled by Communists. The attorney said 10,000 members had quit the UFW.

Wild Swing Kayoes Burglar

MEADVILLE, Pa. — (AP) — William Hughes, caretaker of the Elks club here, heard a scratching noise in his sleep last night.

Thinking it was a mouse, he reached for a club and took an angry swing in the dark.

He flicked on the lights to find he'd kayoed a burglar, who was about to climb out a window with $100 from Hughes' billfold.

REPORT WORKER WALKOUT AT WESTINGHOUSE

Employes Say Production Threatened By Halt in One Department.

A walkout of a small number of production workers disgruntled over meager paychecks last week is threatening output of electric ranges at the Westinghouse Electric corporation plant here, it was announced today. One report said about 20 persons left their jobs.

While neither management nor union officials would comment on the reported dispute, members of Local 711, UERMWA-CIO, have said the refusal to work of some key employes threatens output of an entire assembly line of ranges in the vitreous enameling plant.

While there were reports that some of the employes were dissatisfied over pay received through a "bonus," one company official said the firm no longer has a bonus but that low paychecks may have resulted through the incentive system because of lack of work for some of the workers.

One employe said some of his fellow workers drew pay checks ranging from $21 to $29 last week, causing them to leave their jobs Friday afternoon.

It was understood that union and management officials were meeting today to discuss the dispute, but spokesmen of neither party would comment. There were no reports on whether the workers were back at their jobs today.

Burge Family Gets a 'Roof' For All Ten

Lawrence Burge, his wife, Mildred, and their family of eight children, will have a roof over their heads until they can find a home.

Major Howard Carey of the Salvation Army, said today the evicted family was taken in last night and will be housed in the Salvation Army building" until they can find quarters."

The former East Second street residents were evicted Friday, 13th, after the house, which had been their home for the past three and one-half years, was sold.

The oldest son, a private in the American occupation forces in China, is expected home within a month. The other children, including two sets of twins, range in ages from 16 to three and one-half years.

Until last night the five younger children had been housed with Mrs. Burge's mother, near Mt. Vernon, while the three older boys stayed with friends. The father and mother were taken in by a neighbor.

Burge is employed at Westinghouse.

MAIL STOLEN

Police Find Two Parsel Post Bags Slashed Open.

Postal authorities today were investigating the theft of two parcel post mail bags which were recovered by police early this morning at the rear of 273 North Adams street.

Both sacks were cut open and the contents of one stolen. Numerous pieces from the second sack were recovered, postal officials said.

They said they are checking to determine whether the bags were scheduled to be transferred at Mansfield and thus could have been stolen locally or whether they were on a straight-through train and could have been stolen from some point outside the city.

TRIESTE HOLDS KEY TO PEACE, CONNALLY SAYS

Senator Assails Molotov's Charge U. S. Seeking Military Base.

PARIS — (INS) — Sen. Tom Connally of Texas sharply informed Italy and Yugoslavia today that they must accept the peace conference's decision on Trieste without secret reservations lest they endanger the peace of the world.

In a heated exposition of American views on internationalizing that disputed city, he declared:

"The peace of the world is more important than a few miles of territory. The peace of the world is more important than inflated national pride.

"The challenge to peace is here, right on this table. We must not create another Danzig but a free territory without conspiracy or intrigue."

* * *

Voice Shakes.

His voice shaking, the American senator proclaimed:

"We are seeking highways that lead to peace.

"Europe must do its part.

"Two world wars have started in Europe and have involved the rest of the world."

The senator pleaded for UN sovereignty over Trieste.

Assails Molotov.

He assailed the charge by Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov that the U. S. and Britain were attempting to set up a military base at Trieste.

Connally contested Molotov's proposal for a customs union between Yugoslavia and Trieste.

Connally stated that the U. S. believed Trieste should enjoy its own identity, integrity and independence. He said:

"Its authority must arise from its own strength. It must be an entity within itself. Let's make Trieste a symbol of peace and security."

GIRL, 10, SAVES FIVE IN FIRE

Father and Baby Die in Flames Police Say Were Set.

HIGH POINT, N. C.—(U.P.)—Ten-year-old Barbara Ann Deaton doesn't know about heroism and things like that.

All she knows is that she broke out some windows and helped her five sisters and brothers to safety yesterday when she saw angry flames curling under the door and felt their blistering heat.

She was able to save Donese, 9; Norma Lee, 8; and Richard, 6, with only minor burns. But 4-year-old Nadine was so badly burned that doctors at Burri Memorial hospital today feared for her life.

Her infant sister, Brenda, perished in the arms of their father, Robert Deaton, a 40-year-old painter. In an insane fit of rage yesterday, Deaton set fire to their home here.

* * *

Holding her painfully burned arms away from her side, Barbara Ann sobbingly told her story.

"Daddy and mother had been fussing. Daddy got an axe and a pitchfork and said that he was going to kill mother. She ran from the house.

"Daddy brought the gasoline can into the house. Then he put us to bed in the bedrooms. I knew something was wrong because it was still daylight."

City to Get 25 Fewer Vet Home Units Under Curtailment Order

Rising Costs Blamed for Cut

Federal Housing Agency Tells Mayor Mansfield Allocation Must Be Kept Down To $164,900.

Mansfield's newest veterans' emergency housing allotment was cut from 75 to 50 units by the Federal Housing authority, Mayor Roy W. Vaughn revealed today.

With 75 other units nearly completion at Charles Mill lake, the cut leaves the city with a proposed 125 units for veterans and their families. Some 400 families need homes here.

Tomorrow, Vaughn said, local housing officials are to take topographical surveys and revised contracts to the Cleveland FPHA office for approval. An Oct 1 deadline has been set for paper work on the proposed, two-site project.

Vaughn said the city's allotment was reduced by the FPHA because of rising building costs which will make it impossible for the agency to finance all the emergency homes it had planned to allocate to municipalities.

The nine barracks-type buildings which the government will ship here from Wright field to comprise the 50 units are to be erected on a Grace street site and on children's home property at Diamond and Hedges streets.

* * *

$164,900 Fund Set.

The FPHA has been authorized to spend $164,900 for the erection of the 50 units while the city has set up a $15,000 fund to pay its share of the installation costs and the management costs.

First of the 75 units at Charles Mill lake, near Mifflin, are expected to be ready for use by next Monday, project officials have reported. Equipment shortages have repeatedly delayed opening of the units there

Richland county commissioners, too, have already applied for the county's $64,149 share of a state housing fund but have mapped no plans for use of the funds.

Commissioners say they still have been unable to determine whether any of the funds can be used to finance the proposed 50-unit project

2 SQUIRREL HUNTERS HURT

Mansfield and Millersburg Men Injured in Mishaps.

Two Mansfield area men were recovering from injuries suffered in hunting accidents today after receiving blasts from shotguns while hunting squirrels on the first day of the season Saturday.

Injured were John Flowers, 85 Mendota street, and Deloise Cullen of Millersburg.

Richland county sheriff's deputies said Mrs. Helen Niejadlik, 147½ West Arch street, reported shooting at a squirrel's tail she saw moving in a wood lot off Olivesburg road Saturday evening.

Flowers was squatting on the ground as he cleaned a bushytail he had shot earlier Mrs. Niejadlik told deputies she didn't see Flowers and thought the movement of the squirrel's tail was that of a free animal.

Mrs Niejadlik took Flowers to a physician's office where 34 shot pellets were removed from his arms, legs, chest and nose.

A similar accident occured in woods near Millersburg Saturday when Cullen received 19 shot pellets from another hunter's gun. It was said the other hunter, who was not named, thought the movement of Cullen's head was that of a squirrel Nineteen shot pellets were removed from the back of Cullen's head and neck at Pomerene hospital

Showdown Seen Likely In Wallace-Byrnes Row

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Every sign pointed today to a red hot dispute between Henry A. Wallace and the state department over future foreign policy speeches by the secretary of commerce. Whether a full-scale cabinet crisis would develop remained to be seen.

That appeared to hinge on whether President Truman's stated approval of Wallace's right to deliver his New York speech last Thursday cleared the way for Wallace to carry on his fight for what he considers a "more realistic" attitude toward Russia.

If so, a showdown is in the making over the current "tough" policy of Secretary of State Byrnes.

No one in either the Wallace camp or at the state department appears to consider that Mr. Truman's statement on Saturday resolved the basic policy differences between the two cabinet officers.

Republicans assailed the "president's mistake" and questioned the wisdom of letting Wallace criticize administration foreign policies, but Democrats generally hailed Mr. Truman's explanation and pressed hope the incident would be considered cleaned up.

State department officials appeared by no means confident the row would die down. Some disappointment was expressed pri-

FEARS OF WAR DISCOUNTED

War Department Says None With Russia Likely.

(By International News Service)

As negotiations to end the national maritime strike collapsed today, police in many ports anticipated violence, with AFL longshoremen threatening to cross picket lines of the CIO National Maritime union.

The CIO union called the latest strike after AFL unions had won a settlement of their walkout. The CIO group telegraphed President Truman asking the same wage boost for its workers as that received by the other union.

In New York, AFL longshoremen went to work on two major piers, and Joseph P. Ryan, president of the International Longshoremen's association, reiterated that his men would not "respect the Commie picket line."

In Boston, extra details were assigned in anticipation of violence if AFL men attempted to cross the CIO picket lines. But the anticipated violence failed to materialize when AFL longshoremen and seamen declined to attempt to cross strong picket lines of the NMU.

The Delaware river between Philadelphia and Marcus Hook was jammed with ships tied up by the strike

First Airmail Plane to Land In City Brings Pack of Letters From Bucyrus

Mansfield had airmail service yesterday!

Although the "service" lasted only a brief 50 minutes and was discontinued at 3:30 p. m. Sunday, it was the first time in the history of the city that airmail letters were landed at Municipal airport.

The historical "first run" was made by James R. McConnell, 643 Cook road, an ex-army pilot. McConnell took off from Municipal airport, complete with mail sack and Bucyrus bound, at 2:40 p. m. He landed at the Bucyrus port at 3 p. m., where he was greeted by 4,000 persons attending an air show at the Bucyrus airport.

A handful of letters, addressed to Mansfield persons and organizations, were placed in the sack by Adam Boryczka, a member of the Bucyrus Junior Chamber of Commerce which sponsored the airshow.

"After a short talk by Boryczka, I loaded the mail sack into the plane and took off for Mansfield," McConnell said.

The Sportcoupe, which the ex-army flier piloted, touched its wheels to the ground at Municipal airport at 3:30 p. m., and the first airmail run into Mansfield was over.

The letters were turned over to the Mansfield postoffice officials yesterday and were delivered to addresses this morning.

Mail carried by McConnell yesterday was marked "Special Airplane Mail to Mansfield," and carried airmail stamps.

One of the letters received by the News-Journal today was from F. L. Hopley, Bucyrus state consul, Lincoln highway association. He called the run the "First air mail delivery between Bucyrus and Mansfield over the 'Lincoln Skyway'"

He said that sometime in the future there may be a "Lincoln Skyway" from New York to San Francisco "paralleling, and a part of, the present Lincoln highway."

Try and Stop Me

—By Bennett Cerf

Football Coach Bo McMillin once had a great back on his team whose conceit threatened to undo him. McMillin never overlooked a chance to take him down a peg.

One day the back picked up a fumbled ball on his own three-yard line and galloped the length of the field for a game-winning touchdown.

In the locker room, McMillin controlled his elation. "You started too slow," he told the back "You went down the wrong side of the field; there were fewer men to take out on the left side. And I didn't like the way you stiff-armed their safety man. Seems to me it would have been better to sidestep him."

The back looked serious for a minute, and then said, "There's only one other thing I'd like to know, Coach. How was it for distance?"

2,300,000 Still In Army, Navy

WASHINGTON — (UP) — The United States today—just a little better than a year after Japan's surrender—has 2,300,000 men under arms.

The gigantic war machine which helped crush Germany and beat Japan is now down to about a sixth of its peak fighting strength. And it is going to shrink some more during the next nine months.

On Sept. 1, 1945, the United States had approximately 12,100,000 men in uniform. By June 30 next, the armed forces are slated to drop to around 1,615,200 and to stay close to that level unless congress decides on an increase or directs a further decrease.

Barclay On Bridge

EXPERT card-readers, who gain points through accurate counting of the suit-lengths of their opponents, do not use anything mysterious or complex. They follow a very simple formula. Whenever one opponent shows he has some exact number of cards in one suit, they subtract the number of cards in sight and known from 13 to find how many the other opponent has. Then, when they learn the total held by one opponent in two suits, all they require, to count his whole hand, is learn how many he has in one of the other two suits. That, incidentally, counts the partner's hand, too.

(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable)

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	2 ♥	3 ♣	Pass
3 ♦	Dbl	4 ♣	Pass
5 ♣

It might have been well for South to pass the double of 3-Diamonds to see if North wanted to redouble, or try 3-No Trumps. The latter would have produced a very easy game, plus an extra trick if spades were finessed. As it was, South should have made game in clubs, but failed because he was not a card-counter.

West led the diamond J, the Q forcing the K, the A taking the next trick and the 4 getting ruffed by the club A. The club Q, J, K and 10 cleared trumps, and then South scored the spade A and K. Now he led the 7. Deciding, on percentage, that the best play was to try to drop the J with the Q, he attempted that and thereby set up the J for West. On his diamond 10 he tossed one of his three hearts. Another went on the heart A, but then the spade 10 and heart 10 piled up on the spade J.

When West failed to follow suit on the third diamond, South could have known East had five of the suit originally. He bid hearts, however, therefore, with his marked strength, had five of those at least. When he followed to only one club lead, this made it impossible for him to have more than two spades. So, after the spade A and K, South should have known he was out of the suit and that the finesse of the 10 against the J was sure to win.

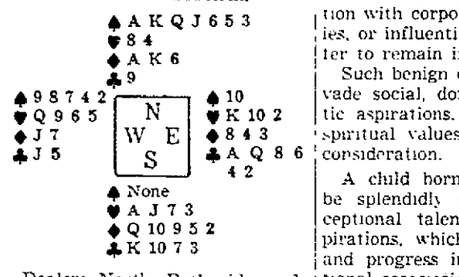
Tomorrow's Problem.



Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable)

How should South play for 6-Diamonds after the club A takes the J lead and the heart K is returned.

GENERAL AND 4 DIE AS PLANE HITS MOUNTAIN

21 Royal Canadian Fliers Are Killed When Transport Crashes in Landing.

ASHEVILLE, N. C. —(INS)— A searching party was expected today to remove the bodies of Maj. Gen. Paul B. Wurtsmith and four crewmen from the wreckage of their army B-25 which crashed against a 4,000-foot mountain.

The wrecked plane was spotted yesterday by army fliers from the Greenville, S. C. field. It lay about 200 feet from the top of the mountain, which is 20 miles southwest of Asheville.

The plane crashed while it was en route to Mac Dill field near Tampa, Fla., from Michigan.

Gen. Wurtsmith, whose home is in Detroit, had been assigned to temporary duty at MacDill field. He was permanently attached to the army air force headquarters in Washington.

MacDill officers said the crew included Lt. Col. F. L. Trickey, Berlin, Wis.; Lt. Col. P. R. Okerbloom, Mount View, N. J.; Master Sgt. Hosey W. Merritt, Geneva, Ala.; and Stagg Sgt. Hoyt W. Crump, Hartwell, Ga.

INQUIRY ORDERED IN 21-VICTIM CRASH.

OTTAWA —(INS)— The Royal Canadian Air Force today ordered an investigation into the cause of the crash of a DC-3 transport plane at Estavan, Saskatchewan, in which 21 persons were killed.

All the victims were members of the RCAF, most of them pilots, who were to have flown planes kept in storage since the end of the war from Estavan to Fargo, N. D.

The transport plane crashed when it overshot the runway in landing. Names of the victims were withheld pending notification of next-of-kin.

GIVES STORE

Owner Quits, Hands Over Key to Faithful Employe.

KALAMAZOO, Mich.—(INS)—Hardware Clerk Ray A. Thomas owns the store in which he worked for 16 years—but he still finds it difficult to believe.

Thomas came to work one morning and found his boss, C. N. Drescher of Michigan City, Indiana, there ahead of him.

Drescher pulled out the key to the store, one of Kalamazoo's most prosperous businesses, and handed it over to Thomas.

He explained:

"I've had enough of the hardware business. My wife and I have all the money we need. You have made me plenty of money and you have worked hard. You're the one who should get the business."

Mayor Proves He's Boss of Community

PARIS, Tenn. —(UP)— Mayor J. M. McCutcham, a tombstone dealer, went out of his way to handle a new kind of job. He personally drilled a hole in the sidewalk on the spot where Mrs. A. S. Roberts had staged a sit-down strike.

The hole is for parking meter pole. Mrs. Roberts didn't want one in front of her store, but the Mayor did, so he went to court, got opinion in his favor and did the job himself. f

New Device Shows Body Operations

NEW YORK —(UP)— Development of motion picture x-rays, which can be projected on a screen to permit doctors to study the internal organs of the body in operation, has been announced by Dr. Russel J. Reynolds, a British medical authority.

The new method, known as cineradiography, combines the techniques of x-ray with motion picture photography and "will permit physicians to study at much greater length the actual movements of the human heart, contractions of the gall bladder, functioning of the joints and other organs under the skin." Reynolds told the delegates to the 24th annual meeting of the American Congress of Physical Medicine.

Storm Splits Ship In Two; 24 Rescued

MANSFIELD NEWS-JOURNAL
MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 16, 1946 TELEPHONE 4251-6 PAGE NINE

Winchell — On Broadway

IN 1940, and repeated as late as 1944, Stalin declared that a Communist state was never safe until the whole world was Communist.

* * *

The diplomatic rat race, started by Russia, is on. History will record the unspeakable tactics to snare the support of Germans as an atrocity of peace. The Allied diplomatic throat slitting (while promising to revive Naziland's power) not only emphasizes their split — but also underlines the cleavage between FDR's foreign policy and the zig-zagging now practiced by America's leaders. Roosevelt said: "As for Germany, that tragic nation which has sown the wind and is now reaping the whirlwind—we and our Allies are entirely agreed that we shall not bargain with the German conspirators, or leave them a shred of control—open or secret—of the instruments of gov't. We shall not leave them a single element of military power—or of potential military power."

* * *

From a front page story in the New York Herald Tribune of Jan. 1, 1945: "Allied supreme headquarters, confirming reports from the front of a mass slaughter by the Germans of American soldier prisoners, issued today an official statement which said that 115 Americans were murdered in this way soon after the German counter-offensive began. The statement (issued after an investigation) said the Americans captured near Malmedy, Belgium, were lined up in ranks six deep and mowed down by machine-gun fire."

But a year and a half later American diplomats are ready to treat German soldiers like allies!

* * *

There is nothing so hypocritical and stupid as the current syrupy drooling by Allied diplomats about the difference between "The German people" and the Nazis. "The German people" still is the most obnoxious type of weasel-wording . . . Naziism is merely a new label for ancient German venom. One of Germany's military heroes is General Count von Haesler. He once declared: "It is necessary that our civilization build its temple on mountains of corpses, on an ocean of tears and on the death cries of men and women without number. Germany must rule the inferior races of the world!" . . . He said that in 1893!

* * *

Sec'y Byrnes' naive babbling that the Germans will behave like good little rodents if they are gifted with democracy, must make intelligent citizens shudder. Germans had a taste of democracy during the days of the Weimar Republic — after the first World war. They promptly spit it out and swallowed Nazism. And when the Nazis were riding high, Dr. Karl Joseph Wirth, Chancellor of the Weimar Republic, openly bragged that Hitler only continued the rearmament that had been secretly prepared by his gov't. Wirth added: "I deserve great credit for this preparation."

Pegler — Fair Enough

NEW YORK — On the subject of hereditary wealth, President Roosevelt, in a message to congress, in 1935, declared that "the transmission of vast fortunes by will, inheritance or gift is not consistent with the ideals and sentiments of the American people."

By his use of the qualifying word "vast" in his discussion of fortunes, Mr. Roosevelt established a bridge by which he could retreat to safe ground when he should be challenged during his life as a beneficiary of a custom which he condemned and, historically, after his own death, as one who practised an evil which he had deplored.

To a man who can leave only $3,000 to his family, an estate of $50,000 is "vast" although the income on conservative investments might be no more than $30 a week which, nowadays, is below the ceiling of poverty in most urban areas. However, a person with a fortune of a million has always been regarded as a rich man and Mr. Roosevelt was by inheritance, a millionaire.

* * *

"THE DESIRE to provide security for one's self and one's family is natural and wholesome," he said. "But it is adequately served by a reasonable inheritance."

By the will of his mother, Mr. Roosevelt received nine-tenths of her entire estate of $1,089,872, net.

To go no further back than the president's maternal grandfather, Warren Delano, who died in 1898, we find that he left an estate of $1,338,000.

President Roosevelt had condemned the inheritance of vast estates derived from the exertions of the people. He may have believed that equally large fortunes, derived from vices and misfortunes of humanity, were morally superior but he neveer touched on that subject although he was still alive and campaigning for his fourth term when the disclosure came that Grandfather Warren Delano had been an opium smuggler in the China trade.

No biographer of any Roosevelt ever discovered or had the fidelity to report that Warren Delano was an opium smuggler. Nor is there any more than the sketchiest reference to the fact that James Roosevelt, the president's father, had profiteered in the tragedy of the southern states after the civil war. James Roosevelt had been a "money changer" in his own son's angry meaning of the term employed in his first inaugural address in 1933.

* * *

FRANKLIN ROOSEVELT was still a millionaire when he died. Leaving only $100 each to his personal employees and not more than $19 a week for all purposes for his faithful secretary of long service, Missy Le Hand, who, perhaps fortunately, for her, did not live to know the gratitude of a hero who had spoken so scornfully of greedy employers. And the fortune which he had acquired by inheritance, "vast" or modest according to your own opinion of an estate far beyond a million, was left almost entirely to his family, most of whom, during his presidency, had exploited the presidency as a gravy train.

The people who revered him do not know the approximate value of the collection of stamps which he had fattened through his presidential powers, but a mere portion of it brought $210,875 at auction. It had been a petty collection when he took office in 1933.

Last winter, James Roosevelt, his son, and Basil O'Connor, his former law partner, familiar with Roosevelt's ethics, and knowing the degree of his sincerity, felt justified in asking the New York state department of taxation if the late president could be legally regarded as a soldier on active service because he held the title of "commander in chief" in war. They were turned down but it was a stab worth trying and true to the character of the man they knew so well. For they might have been able to save for the heirs a few thousands in income taxes which thus would have been eased onto the shoulders of "those who toil."

Othman — On Anything

WASHINGTON — (UP) — At hand from the building trades are statements curling smoke; so hot they are blistering my fingers and scorching my desk.

Mow down Wilson Wyatt and plow him under on a vacant lot. Poke a two-by-four down his gullet. Bend a lead pipe on his skull while there yet is time. Or at least fire him now, urges the home owners' league.

Having read the statements and listened to the speeches, I thought I'd better drop in on the housing expediter and see if he had any last wishes.

I presumed that I'd be frisked by his guards, ushered into his bomb-proof chamber, and find our embattled housing czar sitting in a suit of chain mail, thumbing through a tombstone catalogue.

I must report that I'd never met Wyatt before, but that he is an exceedingly likeable guy. He isn't scared. Neither is he glum. He's got problems and he's worried, as well he should be, but he's also got hopes.

* * *

HE'S NOT TALKING about them yet, but I don't believe he'll deny it if I say he expects to make his critics eat their words about failure of his housing program.

As of now 607,000 new homes have been started. His projection of the figures indicate that by the end of October 800,000 houses will be under construction, and by January, better than 1,000,000.

If he manages that, the all-time building record will have been smashed. The get-rid-of-Wyatt forces say what good is a house started, but not finished? Wyatt agrees, but says give him another few weeks.

Lumber now is coming out of the sawmills at a tremendous rate. Almost twice as many brick were baked in June as in the same month last year; clay sewer pipe production is up 45 per cent and cement 62 per cent. Never before has so much gypsum board and lath been made.

PRACTICALLY ALL of this material must go into houses. Wyatt hopes there soon will be so much building material that the new houses can be finished promptly and that their costs inevitably will come down. They'd better.

'CHUTIST DIES

BOWLING GREEN — (INS) — Failure of his main parachute to open was blamed today for the death of Gordon Lahman, 18-year-old Eagle Rock, Cal., ex-paratrooper, at a Bowling Green air circus. Lahman, who was discharged from the army only ten days ago, died in a volunteer jump which opened the air show yesterday.

COUNCIL STILL TRYING TO MAP GARBAGE BILL

Committee Visits City Sewage Plant, Doesn't Get Around to Ordinance Discussion.

City council's four-man sewer-garbage committee will meet Wednesday night to discuss a seven-point plan for revising the city's refuse collection ordinance.

An extensive tour of the city's sewage plant prevented the committee from meeting yesterday to map plans for the new ordinance, Charles N. Shultz, committe member, said.

The committee was to consider a plan recommended by five city officials for revising the garbage fee upwards, setting an ash collection fee and a by-the-bushel schedule for ash collections.

Inspection of the sewage plant came as a follow-up on a meeting held two months ago when expansion of the city's sewers and sewage treatment facilities were discussed by state and local officials.

A long-range plan is being mapped for increasing treatment facilities and expanding sewer facilities to allotments surrounding Mansfield. The sewer-garbage committee toured the plant yesterday to bring itself up-to-date on the workings of the plant, Shultz said.

ASK ORDER ON FUND TRANSFER

Commissioners Want Relief Money For ADC Program.

Whether $7,000 from the county's public utilities excise tax fund, earmarked by the legislature for use only in direct poor relief, can be used in the Richland county aid to dependent children program will be decided by the common pleas court.

County commissioners today had passed a resolution asking the court for its approval and County Prosecutor Theodore Lutz reported a formal petition has been drawn up and is ready for filing with the court.

Action on obtaining the transfer was thus a step nearer after Probate Court Judge S. H. Cramer had written to the commissioners asking for additional funds because of insufficient money in the ADC account.

Last July the subject came up when Mrs. Katherine McMichael, ADC case supervisor, said a 40 per cent slash in benefit payments to some 250 children loomed because of depleted funds.

However, Judge Cramer, administrator of the program, at that time ordered that payments be kept at 100 per cent of the planned budget in hopes that the commissioners would supplement appropriations to the program when and if it ran out of money.

Now funds are gone, and the commissioners, in their resolution declared they would make the supplemental appropriation if the transfer from the utilities tax is approved by the court.

Prosecutor Lutz said the state tax commission has already approved the transfer on condition that it wins the court's nod.

Judge Cramer reports that the program now is aiding 91 families containing 228 children. Monthly benefit payments per family average $68.

City's Fire Prevention Work Showing Results, Chief Says

Between $30,000 and $35,000 worth of new and repair wiring in the downtown business district has been completed in the past year. This, Chief Steele said, was a result of inspections made by the city and state fire fighters and electricians during the 1945 Fire Prevention week, last October.

Mansfield will observe its second large-scale Fire Prevention week from Oct. 6 through Oct. 12 this year.

"We're still holding our breath, but fire loss in Mansfield has decreased this year," the chief said.

Comparing 1945 loss against 1944, the fire chief said that Mansfield's loss in 1945 was $117,589 less than in the preceding year. Loss in the city from fires in 1944 was $286,970; in 1945 loss totaled $169,381.

This year's campaign against fires, headed by W. G. Schultz as general chairman, will seek to establish an organized fire prevention bureau within the city fire department.

Schultz, who is also head of the fire prevention committee of the Chamber of Commerce, sponsoring group of the Fire Prevention week, said that data on establishing and maintaining such a bureau will be assembled.

REPORTS ATTACK

Blymyer Avenue Woman Says 3 Men Knocked Her Down.

Police today were investigating a reported attack on a Blymyer avenue woman last night by three men near the Arch street viaduct.

Officers quoted the woman as saying the three men grabbed her, knocked her down, one holding his hand over her mouth. She fought them off, she said and screamed for help. Several men from homes in the area answered her calls and the three men fled, officers said.

The woman described the men as between 20 and 25 years of age and she said they followed her from Diamond and Arch streets to the viaduct. The attack took place about 9:15 p. m., officers reported.

FEAR VIOLENCE IN SHIP STRIKE

Negotiations For Settlement of Walkout Collapse.

WASHINGTON — (UP) — War department general staff sources told the United Press today that public fears of early conflict between the United States and Russia were not warranted by world conditions.

Responsible officers find no justification for speculation on war within the next five years. Staff sources attribute war fears in this country largely to unjustified anxiety over diplomatic friction between Moscow and Washington in the effort to establish peace.

The reasons given by responsible high ranking officers why they do not anticipate war with Russia in the immediate future are:

1. We have the atom bomb and the Russians have not.

2. Russia is not in a position to wage war at present.

3. The Russians want a period of peace and security to develop their industry and mechanized farming through more five year plans.

4. The Russians do not have a substantial navy.

5. Russia can achieve far more at present through her use of the communist party in the United States, Britain and the countries of Europe and Asia than she could by open conflict.

6. Russia would like amicable relations with the United States at present so she can get more American machinery, materials and technicians to speed her own industrial progress.

Offers Vets Free Dinner

John A. Davis, proprietor of the Three Gables Inn, a mile south of Mt. Vernon, is not a World War II veteran, but he has the veteran at heart.

Davis has announced he will serve free dinner to all Mt. Vernon area veterans interested in forming an Amvet post at 7 p. m. Tuesday. Approximately 200 veterans are expected to attend.

In charge of the business meeting of Mt. Vernon veterans will be Don Mateer of Mt. Gilead, state adjutant of Ohio Amvets, who will introduce Mansfield's Elden Becker, 17th District Amvet Commander, as the principal speaker.

Becker, who has represented the Amvets at three previous meetings of Mt. Vernon veterans, will speak on the principles and aims of the largest World War II veterans organization in Richland county.

Postal Clerks To Try Flying

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Clerks will sort mail aboard a plane for the first time in America's postal service history Sept. 25 when a "flying postoffice" takes off here for Dayton, O. The experimental flight will be made to determine whether such mail service should be widened.

Under the present air mail system clerks handle mail on the ground, then place it in sacks for cities along the way.

SOMETHING ADDED—

Mansfield's official seal has been brought up to date. A picture of an airplane has been added in a move started by Mayor Roy W. Vaughn and J. Gilbert Baird, former chairman of the airport dedication committee, to have the seal fully representative of "The Trunk Line City." Removed to make way for the drawing of the four-motored plane was a cog. The seal includes, in addition to its new symbol of the "Air Age," a picture of a blockhouse, an old-style train engine and coal car and another cog. In the center of the city's seal is the state seal. The idea for the addition of the plane was "born" during the planning of the dedication of the city's new airport and the "up dating" job was just completed by Guido Avellone, artist for Coleman Todd and Associates.

OPEN ALL DAY—

Jack Berger, secretary-manager of the Richland County Automobile club, is wondering if Mansfielders have the mistaken idea that the Auto club offices are closed on Saturday afternoon. Most of the day's total of 568 licenses were sold between the hours of 10 a. m. and noon, when hundreds crowded to the counters to get their licenses. Yet in the afternoon the clerks stood around with hardly a customer to serve.

"Maybe if we tell people that we are open on Saturday afternoon until about 4 p. m. they wouldn't crowd us so much in the morning and everyone would be happier," Berger said.

FAITHFUL—

The usual quiet that prevails around General hospital was broken for several hours today by the yelping of an anxious dog, which tried to get into the building, without success. He had apparently followed his master to the hospital and couldn't understand why he should be refused entrance. Hospital attaches reported that he went from door to door and attempted to slip by as people were entering and leaving. When this failed he made a check on the lower floor windows, yelping all the while.

DISCUSS FAIR

Members of County Society to Hold Session Tonight.

Richland county's revitalized Agricultural Society, parent organization of the county fair board, will attempt to decide again the future of the fairground and annual fair at a meeting in common pleas court room at 8 p. m. today.

Orville Kibler, secretary of the society, announced the meeting and said "The future of the Richland county fairs will be discussed."

The society, expanded by a summer membership drive that netted some 196 members, largest roster in its history, has been undecided on proposals to sell the present fairground and find a new site. A special committee, composed of Charles Oberlin, Clarence Tugend and Clair Will, is expected to report its recommendations.

PLANES HUNT FOR FOURTEEN MISSING MEN

Coast Guard Admits Chances Are Slim That Others Survived Wreck.

NORFOLK, Va. — (AP) — Twenty-four Norwegian seamen, snatched from the stormy Atlantic by rescue vessels two days after their own ship—the motor tanker Marit II—had been split in half in hurricane-lashed seas 148 miles off the North Carolina coast were headed for northern U. S. ports today while coast guard planes and surface craft pressed a search for 14 or more missing men.

The cutter Agassiz already was steaming in the area where the 7,417-ton Marit II floundered. Commander J. R. Scullion of the Norfolk coast guard's air-sea rescue division sent planes out at sunrise in what he readily admitted was a faint chance for additional rescues.

First notification ashore that the tropical storm which whirled northeastward over the weekend had claimed major prey came in a radio dispatch from the tanker Pan Amoco. It disclosed she had picked up 18 survivors in a lifeboat from the "sunken" Norwegian ship yesterday.

The survivors reported in additional radio messages that they believed three more survivors were alive on a raft but that 19 of the ship's company had perished.

Late yesterday, however, a search plane directed the American tanker Gulf Hawk to a position 40 miles north of the first rescue and six men were taken from a raft in "fair to good" condition in spite of their buffeting on a raft for 52 hours or more. The Gulf Hawk is bound for Philadelphia and the Pan Amoco for New York.

Survivors reported their ship—bound from Curacao, Netherlands West Indies, for New York with a cargo of fuel oil—was split in half at about noon of Friday the 13th.

The Marit II, built 24 years ago, was operated by the Joseph P. Jensen company or Arendal, Norway.

CARDINALS WIN TWIN BILL---DODGERS SPLIT

SPORTS ROUND UP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Subject: A little aggressiveness doesn't hurt—or what happened to Bill Dickey and what will happen to Tami Mauriello . . . Everybody hereabout seemed to know that Dickey wouldn't manage the Yankees next year and the only surprise was that Larry MacPhail fired him so abruptly . . . If he had been an aggressive "holler guy"—especially the kind who would holler right back at MacPhail the way Leo Durocher used to—Bill probably would have held the job indefinitely.

The same "everybody" knows that Joe Louis will belt the tar out of Mauriello some time Wednesday night . . . but Tami is an aggressive fighter with a punch. He has to be, because his game leg won't let him run away . . . Joe has been training almost constantly since last March and probably is a bit bored with the whole thing. He has little to gain—including his share of the gate—and his title to lose . . . Chances are you won't get rich betting on Tami, but he can't make a much worse showing than Billy Conn did.

MONDAY MATINEE

Tip: If you want a good major league baseball job, just get yourself elected president of the American association. Within two years Red Trautman has gone up to boss the Tigers and Roy Hamey to run the Pirates. Who's next?

Although an estimated 6,500 customers paid nearly 10 cents a hole to watch the amateur golf final—$3.60 admission for 37 holes—the event is so profitless that members of the U. S. golf association's executive committee pay their own expenses to attend . . . Incidentally, Bob Willets, who drove three balls out of bounds on one hole in a semi-final match Friday didn't even set a record then. Back in 1920 Max Marston, defending his title, was carried to the 39th hole by Peter Harmon. On the third extra hole Pete slammed three consecutive drives out of rounds without giving Marston a chance to tee off and then conceded the match.

Colonels Move Into Finals

(By Associated Press)

Minneapolis and Indianapolis resume their semi-final playoff series tonight with the Indians needing one more victory to advance to the American association finals against Louisville.

The Millers prolonged the series yesterday by beating the Tribe 4-1 with sensational fielding by Bill Lillard and effective pitching by Bob Joyce. The Millers were outhit 8-5.

The four-game series now stands 3 to 2 in favor of Indianapolis.

Louisville moved into the final round by eliminating St. Paul, four games to one. The Colonels won the final game 8-4 on 14 hits and a six-run fourth inning.

Pitcher Harry Dorish limited St. Paul to seven hits for his second triumph of the series. Dorish also collected two hits, one of them a double.

In tonight's game at Minneapolis, starting at 8:15 Central Standard time, Indianapolis will send Johnny Hutchings to the mound against the Millers' Jack Brewer.

St. Louis Gains Full Contest

By JOE REICHLER
(AP Sports Writer)

For the first time in major league baseball, two teams—Brooklyn and St. Louis—may wind up the complete season in a dead heat for the flag.

With exactly two weeks of the campaign remaining, the Cardinals possess a game and a half lead over the Dodgers in one of the tightest pennant races the National league has ever known. However, both teams are all even in the lost ledger. The Cards' advantage is all in the win column since they've played and won three more games than Brooklyn.

Unless rain interferes, the Ddgers should make up those three games by Friday at which time each contender will have played 146 games with eight to go. The Dodgers' 19-inning tie with the Cincinnati Reds is slated to be played off Friday.

The Cardinals gained a full game on the Brooks yesterday when they defeated the Giants twice 3-0 and 7-4 while the Dodgers were held to a split by the Cubs.

After dropping a thrilling 4-3, 10-inning decision to the Cubs, the Dodgers, behind Kirby Higbe's one-hit pitching, bounced back to win the afterpiece of the double header 2-0. The game was halted after five innings by a combination of semi-darkness and a swarm of gnats which infested Ebbets' Field, packed to capacity by 32,264 cash customers.

Dave Ferriss, Boston's brilliant sophomore, won his 25th game as the American League Champion Red Sox split with the Chicago White Sox. Ferriss allowed eight hits in winning the opener 4-1 but Chicago came back to blank the Red Sox 6-0, behind Johnny Rigney.

Ferriss thus tied the American league record of Wes Ferrell who won 46 games in his first two complete seasons for the Cleveland Indians.

The St. Louis Browns won twice from the New York Yankees 1-0 and 2-1. Rookie Jack Sanford, making his major league debut, limited the Yanks to five hits in the first game.

Buddy Lewis and Cecil Travis collected nine hits between them and Pitcher Early Wynn hit a grand slam home run to help Washington outslug the Detroit Tigers 15-5.

The Boston Braves advanced to within two games of the third place Cubs by whipping the Reds twice 2-1 and 6-1. The first game defeat was the Reds' 37th by one run.

The Phillies offset a single tally by Pittsburgh in the top half of the 11th inning with two in their half to defeat the Pirates 6-5, the victory enabled the Phils to wrest fifth place from the Reds.

Galion Netters Top Woodland

Woodland tennis club dropped a 3 to 2 decision to the Galion netters at Galion's Heise park yesterday afternoon.

Woodland copped two of three singles matches but lost both tandem batters. Watty Slabaugh, Mansfield tennis champion, defeated Heusel, 6-3, 9-7 and Frank Gadfield, No. 3 man, won over Halbert, 3-6, 6-1, 6-4 for the Mansfield victories.

Taylor of Galion took three sets to down R. D. Isaly in the other singles match, 7-5, 4-6, 6-4.

Both doubles matches went the route Taylor-Heusel topped Slabaugh-Isaly 4-6, 6-4, 6-4 and Delahook-Fink, Galion, defeated Bob Dobson and Hank Bourns, 6-2, 6-8, 6-4.

JOE MAYER ADDRESSES HIS BALL on the final hole of the 1946 Richland county golf tournament as Al Hager (kneeling) and Bill Mercer (back to camera) look on. Mayer dropped the putt to tie Bill Black, jr., for second place with 149's. Hager won the championship with a 75-72—147 while Mayer defeated Black in a sudden-death playoff for runnerup honors. Nearly 300 fans followed Hager, Mayer, Mercer and Ted Etzel around the links in the afternoon.

Hager Wins County Golf Crown

EX-MARINE CARDS 147 FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

Al Hager, 22 year old ex-Marine, fired an even-par 72 yesterday afternoon to win the 1946 Richland county golf championship with a 36-hole total of 147 on the Westbrook Country club links.

Rated as co-favorite with five-time champ Joe Mayer, Hager was two-down on Mayer and Bill Black, jr. at the end of the morning round. Shooting the back nine first in the afternoon, Hager tied Mayer, Black and Carl Kushin at the 27 hole mark with 111.

Black	445	351	454—38—76

Hager closed with seven pars and a bird on the front nine to win the title as the other trio faded. Mayer and Black tied for second with 149's while Kushin ended in fourth place. The latter trailed Black and Mayer with a 38-36—74 in the morning.

Hot "irons" pulled the former Westbrook caddy through the tournament. In the morning round he got a deuce on the par 4 11th hole when his 125-yard chip shot dropped in the cup. Hager used a 10 iron.

Hager has been shooting par or under in three leagues this summer and yesterday's victory was his second Richland county title. Curly-haired Al played in the News-Journal league, Tappan Stove loop and the Westbrook circuit.

He went in the Marines shortly after his 18th birthday and served three years with the leathernecks.

Hager was in the South Pacific 25 months.

Hager played on the Mansfield Senior high golf team for four years, winning the scholastic crown at Bucyrus in 1940 and '41.

Mayer posted 37-36—73 for an early lead in the morning but Black knotted the tournament a few minutes later when he duplicated the score. Black playing the front nine last in the morning saw a chip shot pop out of the cup depriving him of an even-par 72.

Mayer and Black met in a sudden death play-off to determine the runnerup with the former winning on the 38th hole. Both had par 4's on the 37th.

Mayer sank a 30-foot putt to get a birdie on the 38th and take second-place. Black missed a chance to tie the count when he missed an eight-footer by inches.

Frank Jocha, 1945 champ, finished far out of the running with a 79-80—159. He tied for 14th place with three others.

After compiling the 111 total at the 27th hole, Kushin slipped to a 41 on his last nine-holes and ended up in fourth place. Ed Blonston, runnerup in 1945, pieced together a 38-37—75 and 40-38—78 for the fifth place total of 153.

Ted Etzel, playing in the same foursome with Hager and Mayer, tied Vic Salter and Vin Malaska for sixth with 154's. Salter was third in the '45 competition.

Seventy-six golfers competed for the 31 major prizes offered by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the 1946 tournament. Forty-five cigaret lighters were presented other contestants.

Bangtails Run For Mansfield At Thistle Down Tomorrow

CLEVELAND—The bangtails will be running for Mansfield at the Thistle Down race course tomorrow, as Cleveland goes into its final week of racing.

Four of the eight races on Tuesday's card will comprise "Mansfield Day." Thistle Down's 43-day meeting ends Saturday.

An official party of 20 Mansfielders, representing the City building and Chamber of Commerce, will be guests of Thistle Down for a luncheon at 12:45 and the racing card beginning at 2:30.

The sixth race, feature event on the program, has been proclaimed the "Mansfield Day" purse with $1,200 offered to the gee-gees. Mansfield Mayor Roy W. Vaughn will present the winning thoroughbred with a floral horseshoe.

Fourth race on the card will be dedicated to the Mansfield News-Journal, fifth to the Mansfield-Leland hotel and seventh to the Chamber of Commerce.

Included in the party from the City building is Mayor Vaughn, William Enlow, safety director; Leslie Wagner, city solicitor; Paul Kelley, city auditor; Municipal Judge H. H. Schettler, Charles J. Stecker, clerk of council; Meade K. Bates, chief of police; J. V. Will, John C. O'Donnel and C. H. Henkel, attorneys.

Carry Torch For Tami

NEW YORK—(UP)—Tami Mauriello will be feted in the Bronx tonight although it's a 9-1 bet that he'll be defeated in the Bronx Wednesday night.

Tough Tami will be honored by a torchlight parade—a gesture of flaming confidence that the battling Bronxite will beat Joe Louis at Yankee stadium and become the borough's first world heavyweight champion.

Neither challenger nor sparring partners extended themselves in the last boxing drill, for Tami already was groomed "fine" by the longest training grund of his career, seven weeks, according to Trainer Al Silvani.

Manager Lefty Remini said that his "white hope" weighed about 198½ pounds, and that he would scale about 196 for the fight.

CRONIN, BEATS THE GUN, PICKS HUGHSON TO START

By CHARLES EINSTEIN, I.N.S. Sports Writer.

CHICAGO — (INS) — Memo to the Brooklyn Dodgers and the St. Louis Cardinals:

Settle your affairs, gentlemen, and then, whichever of you happens to win the National league flag, make your peace with the powers that be, because you will have to face Tex Hughson of the Boston Red Sox in the first game of the 1946 world series.

Red Sox Manager Joe Cronin laid this on the line today as his admitted intention for the series opener, booked for the supposedly lucky National league city on Oct. 2.

He recommended for your further attention, gentlemen, that his American league champion Red Sox will not be stale by series time, as so many self-described experts have hinted. He suggested even further, gentlemen, that Boston will win the series.

Cronin said that eight of his star players—Dave Ferriss, Hughson, Mickey Harris, Hal Wagner, Johnny Pesky, Bobby Doerr, Ted Williams and Dim Dom DiMaggio—will rest up for the rest of the week following their pennant-clinching job in Cleveland Friday and their doubleheader against the White Sox yesterday. These fellows rejoin their mates in Washington Saturday.

Beyond naming his starter for the series opener Cronin did not choose to go. For those who are interested in such matters at this early date, however, the probable sequence of pitchers will depend upon Hughson's fortunes in the series curtain-raiser.

If Tex wins, Cronin undoubtedly will come right back with another righthander — big Boo Ferriss. Then, with the series shifted to friendly Fenway park in Boston, Joe probably will turn to his left-handed ace, Mickey Harris.

Truman Irked At Departures

MEMPHIS, Tenn. —(AP)— President Truman reportedly has ordered the induction into military service of football stars who have left West Point and Annapolis to play at the old home school, the commercial appeal said today in a copyrighted story.

It is understood, said the paper, that Mr. Truman has become pretty irked about the departures from the academies and has ordered his military aide, Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, to do something about it.

"This 'something' is reported to be a series of phone calls to the selective service officials of states which are harboring 'escapees'—phone calls suggesting that draft boards immediately induct football stars who have left West Point and Annapolis to play at the old home schools," the paper said.

Such action, the story added, would affect Thomas (Shorty) McWilliams of Mississippi state, Clyde Scott of Arkansas, and Notre Dame's Bob Kelly.

Bobby Feller Loses 13th

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Bobby Feller had another defeat—his 13th—on his record today, but there was a bit of new glory also.

His seven strikeouts yesterday while the Indians were splitting a twin bill with the Philadelphia Athletics boosted his total for the season to 315, the second highest number ever attained in modern baseball history and just 28 short of the record held by Rube Waddell.

Walter Johnson previously had been second to Waddell with 313 strikeouts.

Feller suffered a loss in achieving the mark, however, losing a 2 to 0 decision in a pitcher's battle in the nightcap with Bill McCahan, a rookie who was hurling his first game for the Athletics following his recall from Toronto.

The matter of hits allowed, Bullet Bob had the lead, limiting the Athletics to five while his teammates were nicking McCahan for seven.

The first game saw the Indians pound three Athletic hurlers for 15 hits while Bob Lemon was limiting the opposition to five blows. A five-run splurge in the fifth put the game on ice for Cleveland when Ted Sepkowski doubide and Lemon, Dale Mitchell and Hank Edwards produced singles.

Old Timers-Stars Renew Series Tomorrow Night.

Old Timers-All Stars renew their three-out-of-five challenge softball series tomorrow when they tangle at Prospect park at 5:30.

Darkness halted the first game with the score tied up 5 to 5 in the last of the seventh.

Last Thursday the Old Timers won 3-0 behind Aid Geiger's two hit pitching.

Loeckel's Sunray Makes Best Time

Egon Loeckel turned in the fastest time of the day as he sailed his boat ot first place in the Super-Sunray class race yesterday afternoon on Charles Mill lake.

Carl Gabor grabbed second in the Sunray competition with Bob Batson finishing third.

Harold "Ace" Dysart took an early lead in the Y-Flyer race and copped an easy victory. Dick "Timber" Tappan was second followed by Milt Stenzil, Mt. Vernon.

In the eight-foot Pram class, Mrs. Jack Gilbert led Ed Macy across the finish line.

Last racing of the season will be conducted on Charles Mill lake next Sunday.

Yankees, Browns Top All-America

(By United Press)

The New York Yankees, with victories on each coast, and the Cleveland Browns, with two triumphs in the midwest, were out in front today in the new All-America professional football conference and at least thus far seemed to be the teams to beat.

The National league, which doesn't get under way in regularly scheduled play until late this month, probably will have to contend once more with those old pre-war monsters of the midway, the Chicago Bears, who rolled to a 24 to 12 exhibition triumph at Philadelphia. An amazing crowd of 82,600 watched the game at Philly's Municipal stadium on Friday.

Scholastic Gridiron Openers Produce Many Surprises

By JOHN BARRINGTON,
(INS Sports Writer)

The high school football season was barely into its second week today, and already some of the mighty had fallen.

Last week's inaugural firing produced many surprises but none greater than the upset scored by unheralded Cleveland Lincoln over Canton McKinley.

The Bulldogs were supposed to have their best club in years, but they lost a 12-to-7 contest to Lincoln.

Upper Sandusky and Hamilton Catholic, two of last year's unbeaten elevens, also tumbled from the heights. Columbus North defeated Upper Sandusky, 14 to 7, and Greenville managed a 12-to-6 win over Hamilton Catholic.

East Liverpool gave evidence of being slightly below its 1945 power when it barely edged Toronto, 7 to 6.

Some of the powerhouses, however, rolled along with all their accustomed aplomb. Mighty Toledo Waite trounced Elkhart, Ind., 56 to 0. That score was exceeded only by Alliance, which rolled up 63 points while holding Youngstown North scoreless.

Portsmouth, beginning its new Angie Morningstar coaching regime, scintillated in a 50-to-0 triumph over Ceredo-Kenova of West Virginia.

Newark undefeated last season, opened with a 13-to-6 victory over scrappy Columbus East.

This week's program will see most of the late starting teams get into action.

Heading the action will be an important clash between Massillon and Cleveland Cathedral Latin at Massillon. The Tigers are out to regain their old undisputed place upon the top of the state grid heap. Cathedral Latin is the first in a steady succession of tough opponents on a Massillon "suicide schedule."

Oldest Ideal Electric Workers 'Grew Up' With Firm

R. H. Zerby . . . likes music, novels.

Zerby-Massa Team Has Been On Job For 43 Years.

By ALVIN PREYER

Associated with their company at its formation in 1903, Raymond H. Zerby, 262 Wood street, and Charles A. Massa, 81 Mendota street, with 43 years of service behind them, are still on the job daily as the employes with the longest service at the Ideal Electric and Manufacturing company plant.

Both men were born and reared in Mansfield. Zerby, born in 1878, attended the Carpenter school, while Massa, born in 1871, attended St. Peter's schools.

"I've always been in the electrical trades and was associated with S. Glen Vinson, founder and president of Ideal, in the old Card Electric company," Zerby said.

"Massa used to be a printer in the days when the Mansfield Shield and News used to fight like cats and dogs," he said with a chuckle. "I always had a hankering to be a machinist, and my chance came when Ideal was founded."

Working at Ideal, Zerby said that he had "done about everything that is to be done in the electrical business," adding that he'd been a winder for many years.

* * *

INSTRUCTS YOUNG WORKERS IN PLANT.

Massa's work included that of a machinist for about 20 years and then directing the setting up of machinery for tests and instructing the young workers.

Asked about the biggest thrill they had experienced during their long service, Zerby said: "I get so much enjoyment out of life that I can't name a special thrill."

Massa, however, could recall a definite thrill—a sort of shock. "Years ago," he said, "I almost electrocuted myself while learning the electrical trade. It was the 'shock' of my life."

Zerby's hobbies are music and reading Zane Grey novels. "I used to be quite busy with my saxophone," he said, "and I still play a banjo for amusement. I still go for music, but not that modern stuff. Marches are for me."

Massa's hobbies are baseball and football. "I've followed the Yankees for 25 years," he said.

Both men are family men. Zerby having three children, two of whom are still in Mansfield. Massa has eight children, six of whom live in Mansfield.

"Good hard work, and music for relaxation," is Zerby's formula for keeping healthy and happy.

Massa had a new idea to offer. "I make, and drink, a barrel of grape wine each year," he said. "I began this 40 years ago, and I have been feeling better ever since. I really believe that I'm in better shape today than I was 40 years ago."

C. A. Massa . . . had 'shock' of his life.

vately that the president had not taken a stronger stand for Byrnes and against Wallace.

Some friends of Wallace, on the other hand, were visibly cheered both by Mr. Truman's approval of the secretary's right to make the speech and the fact that he placed no blame for the incident on Wallace. There was good reason to believe that Wallace, on the whole, found the president's handling of the case most satisfactory but his position in the cabinet seemed likely to be a subject of White House review on at least two counts:

1. If Wallace remains in the cabinet it might be interpreted abroad as a kind of presidential approval of his foreign policy proposals.

2. If he leaves it presumably would deprive the administration of Wallace's political resources in an election year.

STOCK MARKET EXTENDS SLOW UPWARD TREND

Many Leaders Lack Support; Bidding Linked to Belief Comeback Due.

NEW YORK —(AP)— The stock market recovery of Friday was extended moderately today although there was nothing in the way of a buying rush and many leaders lacked support.

Such bidding as appaered again was credited by brokers mainly to the belief, or hope, that the list was ready for a good technical comeback after its sharp relapse of recent weeks. Some commission men said that a certain amount of bearishness persisted because of strikes and labor problems threatening industrial production.

Better share performers included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Goodyear, Montgomery Ward, Woolworth, J. I. Case, Deere, Public Service of N. J., Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake & Ohio, Anaconda, Du Pont, Union Carbide, Allied Chemical, Eastman Kodak, Johns-Manville and Texas Co.

Registration Gain Shows Growing Election Interest

An indication of reviving interest in the coming general election was seen in a stepped-up rate of registering for the right to vote by residents of Madison township and Mansfield.

Deputy Clerk Walter Underwood of the board of elections reported today that more than 110 persons visited the board to register or file residence changes last week.

"Registrations and transfers had been running only about two or three per day previously," Underwood said.

Transfers and registrations lagged early in the week, reached a peak of 23 on Wednesday and slacked off to 17 last Saturday, the clerk said.

Deadline for registering is Oct. 7 when the office will be kept open in the evening for the latecomers.

Persons who must register if they want to vote Nov. 5 include:

Residents of Madison township and Mansfield only.

Those who have changed their residences since they last voted.

Those who failed to vote at least once during the last two years.

Discharged servicemen and women who failed to vote at least once during the past two years or who voted by war absentee ballot but were otherwise not properly registered.

Those who have become 21 years of age since the last election or who become 21 on or before Nov. 5.

The board of elections will meet at 3:30 p. m. today to open bids for printing the ballots to be used in the election. Underwood said no bids had been received this morning.

The board is also expected to consider for approval or rejection 11 special tax levies and one bond issue to be voted upon by residents of the various county subdivisions.

Ticket Sale Opens Soon

Tickets are expected to go on sale soon for "Carmen Jones," elaborate Billy Rose musical show, which will come to the Ohio theater Oct. 21.

The original New York cast of over 100 persons will present the Rose-produced "take-off" on the lyrical Bizet opera, "Carmen," rewritten for the musical stage by Oscar Hammerstein II and Hassard Short. The show here will be sponsored by the Mansfield Shrine club.

Traveling in a special train of four sleepers, a club car and diner, the show personnel will also be accompanied by scenery filling four double length baggage cars.

Itinerary of the show extends from Providence, R. I. in September to the Pacific coast and return by way of such distant points as Quebec and New Orleans. Thirty-six states and three Canadian provinces will be visited.

STRIKE END SEEN

Two Truckers Offer 44 Hours Pay For 40 of Work.

NEW YORK—(INS)—A break in the paralyzing New York City truck strike that has already closed 1,000 business houses, was forecast today as two large trucking companies made individual offers to the strikers granting increased pay and reduction of working hours.

They proposed to give the drivers the same pay for 40 hours as heretofore paid for 44 hours, plus a $7.40 per week increase with Saturday work at time-and-one-half.

Leaders of Local 807 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters said they will urge members to accept the offer at a meeting tomorrow.

Girl Rescues 5 From Blaze

In a few minutes the house was a roaring blaze in which he and the baby died.

It was then that Barbara Ann smashed the window and went down to the adjoining room and broke that window too. She helped her sister and brothers out.

Almost hysterical, they were standing in the yard when firemen and police arrived. The mother, Mrs. Berlie Deaton, arrived a short time later.

Coroner Dr. W. W. Harvey listed the case as "obviously homicide and suicide."

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 16, 1946

A Louisville scientist contends "it is possible to eat for a week at a cost of only 74 cents"—and a quite natural question is: "Eat what?"

It is now claimed that 105 per cent of the eligible voters in Greece went to the polls at the recent election—and thus does the Kansas City example extend far.

Frances Perkins has been moved from a $15,000-a-year government job to one paying only $12,000 a year—which must be quite annoying, considering the high cost of living.

Reminder of Constitution Day

IN ANTICIPATION of tomorrow's observance of Constitution day it is timely this evening to consider a sentence contained in Mayor Vaughn's proclamation asking that all citizens observe this occasion.

"It is well and fitting," he said, "that every one of us pause and reflect upon the heritage secured by our Constitution; we, as free citizens of the greatest nation on this earth, have a solemn duty to help keep this country of ours 'the land of the free and the home of the brave'."

Regrettably, many people pass through school and into adult life with little more than a smattering of knowledge as to the Constitution, or even the Bill of Rights, and some are therefore misled by alien "isms" alluringly presented by idealistic agitators.

When the Constitution, and its safeguarding of individual liberty, are better understood by those Americans who are now weakening its effectiveness, its actual potentialities will be more nearly approached.

Bureaucrats Resist Economy Pleas

PRESIDENT TRUMAN recently sent a letter to the heads of executive departments and agencies of the government, which is potentially of great importance. In that letter, the president demanded maximum economy in the administration of the bureaus concerned.

"Our present fiscal situation is a most serious one," the chief executive said. "We are faced with a continued substantial budget deficit in the present fiscal year. . . . We must do everything within our power to reduce inflationary pressures. One of the most effective means of doing this is to reduce federal expenditures."

It remains to be seen just how well Mr. Truman can force department heads to carry out his explicit instructions. Normally, high-level bureaucrats are extremely unwilling to cut their budgets and organizations. They work on the principle of the more the merrier.

The plain fact is that the country can no longer afford that kind of a philosophy. The very root of inflation is excessive government spending.

September Also 'Month of Brides'

WHILE June continues as the favored month for marriages, September is playing a close second this year, as will be noticed on the society pages and in the record of licenses issued.

An interesting sidelight is in the appearance of growing preference for church or home weddings, rather than a hurried appointment with a minister or magistrate, or an elopement—any of which meet legal requirements but lack the impressiveness of even a simple church or home ceremony conducted in the presence of either a large or small group of well-wishing relatives and friends.

During the present flooding of courts with divorce actions—mainly attributed to hasty marriages—the advantage of forethought as a preliminary to matrimony, is strongly emphasized and the record discloses clearly that young people who give time, thought and preparation for marriage, and who choose religious surroundings for this important step are least likely to be among those who clutter up divorce courts with admissions of their mistakes.

Candy Coming From Cuba

BEHIND an announcement by the department of commerce that Cuba is to send 75 million pounds of candy to the United States, in time for Christmas trade, is the shenanigan of turning Cuba's sugar surplus into candy to escape the sugar price ceiling that has been fixed by OPA.

Information is to the effect that the almost 40,000 tons of candy to be imported from Cuba is "mostly of the hard variety," which means that much of it can be reprocessed into syrup to meet other sweetening requirements, but at a considerably higher price than would have satisfied Cuban sugar producers in the first place.

It is revealed that Mexico and Argentina are also exporting candy to the United States—which may seem all right, except to United States candy manufacturers, dealers and consumers, who may wonder why this country's sugar supply has been running so short.

Teaching Young Idea How to Fly

EVERY secondary school in the country soon will be teaching aeronautics, according to Brig. Gen. H. M. Thatcher, assistant chief of staff to Gen. Dwight Eisenhower. Thatcher, a much-decorated World War II veteran, is deputy commander of the 11th Air Force and was in charge of army activities at the national air races.

Youth will welcome the general's ideas on school curriculum. Today's boys seem to be born air-minded. Manufacturers are catering to this interest with toy planes equipped with their own miniature engines and capable of flying, on a 50-foot controlled wire, at speeds of 75 miles per hour.

And just to think—it was not so long ago that electric trains were the glamor toys of boyhood!

Taking Conventions Seriously

THE CITY of Montreal never sends an official to a convention unless he can take part in the program, reflecting credit on Montreal, and unless it is certain that he can gain information of future value to his own city.

This is a good plan from Montreal's point of view. It means no waste of money for the delegate's expenses and time away from his office without ample return, but if all organizations took conventions this seriously, the attendance might be rather small. On the other hand, the results might be considerably more effective.

Leave it to California to produce another superlative. A recent auto accident in Berkeley piled up 25 vehicles.

Investment Money Is Withheld Because of Lack of Confidence

By RAYMOND MOLEY

A SIMPLE truth, obscured by no economic jargon, rises over the many explanations of the stock market break. That truth is that, in the midst of quantities of saved money, there were more sellers than buyers of securities of going business concerns.

We are like people on a raft at sea, terribly thirsty, with water all around us. But the water is salted with distrust. And the distrust is a composite of many elements, all of which come down to lack of confidence in the future.

A few reasons for this lack of confidence must be clear to millions of people who have money to spend. Otherwise, money would flow into the open hands of needy enterprises.

Dark talk, leaking from official sources, about gigantic military preparations may scare Russia. But it scares Americans, too. Since the beginning of time, people have hoarded ready cash for emergencies. War talk, coupled with the dread of atomic fury, makes people hesitate to put money into industrial plants which may, tomorrow, be with Hiroshima.

A second factor is uncertainty about the federal budget and the debt. A year ago, the golden opportunity knocked at the White House door to work out a balanced budget and maybe some debt reduction. But that chance the president has frittered away.

In January he proposed a budget of a little over $31 billion. But eight months later, that amount was increased to $40 billion—an increase as large as the whole budget in 1939. Wise people know that state and local government will need nearly $10 billion more.

This trend toward spending, just when tax income might provide the means of reducing debt, chills the marrow investors.

Another depressant on people's spirits is the chaos of the OPA. The OPA persists in announcing that, compared with June 30, prices will be higher, instead of saying that, compared with August 10, prices will be lower.

The OPA fails to point out that, with the vast prospective crop, grain prices will be easier. As a consequence of wild government statements, labor threatens higher wage demands to meet predicted higher prices.

Added to all these unsettling factors are announcements that more labor shortages are just around the corner. Government talk of a labor shortage puts the government squarely behind labor leaders working desperately to get more while full employment lasts. The reality is that agriculture will soon release 2,000,000 workers and that tens of thousands of soldiers and sailors will come home. Construction workers will be released as cold weather sets in and the federal housing program bogs down even deeper.

Another factor is the money market. If investment money is withheld, the natural consequence would be a higher interest rate. But the treasury will not and probably cannot let this happen.

The interest on the national debt is scheduled at 2 per cent. To raise that would further unbalance the budget. But on the other hand, Chairman Eccles of the Federal Reserve Board talks of higher money rates as a check on inflation. His drive on the stock market missed the whole point on inflation, for the stock market was less inflationary than other markets. Farm prices have doubled, but stock prices did only half as well.

And so money saved for rainy days is still dormant. Its owners are waiting for clear sign of the government's intentions. Alarming rumors, extravagant predictions and confused policies have taken the edge off our earlier postwar hopes.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Thursday, Sept. 16, 1926.

Fred Bair, 44, president of Pioneer Transfer company, died at his home, 350 West Sixth street.

Report was in circulation throughout city that "lady bootleggers" were slashing prices.

Ohio Brass company plant was closed to permit employes to attend county fair.

Mrs. Emma Jameson was burned by explosion of accumulated gas in pastry oven at Radio Grill.

Miss Dorothy Eckstein and Donald Bowden were married by Rev. Henry C. Roehner.

Detecting Pre-Cancerous Conditions.

THE FACT that of late years medical science has discovered what are called pre-cancerous conditions, that is, disorders which, though not themselves cancerous, may yet lead to cancer, is one of the great forward steps in the prevention of this dread disease.

In other words we know now that cancer does not come unheralded. Usually it is preceded by some condition which, if treated early, is harmless. Nowhere is this more true than in the case of the breasts.

Indeed, there are a number of breast disorders which do not produce cancer at all, even though they may result in the formation of lumps in the breasts.

Which Are Dangerous.

The important thing, of ocurse, is to distinguish between the disorders which are dangerous and those which are not and this, naturally, can only be done by a physician, but it should be a great comfort to the woman who discovers a swelling in the breast to know that it is not necessarily a serious matter.

One of these conditions is called hypertrophy. It occurs at the maturing period and may affect either one or both breasts. It does not produce any symptoms other than enlargement of the breasts and does not lead to cancer. There is no treatment necessary for it.

Another condition is known as adenofibrosis. In this disorder in its early stages, there is swelling of the breast with some pain and congestion in the veins. The symptoms increase just before the regular periods and become less after the period starts.

In the early stages, there are small lumps in the breasts which join together as the condition progresses, to form a solid mass. This condition also does not lead to cancer and disappears during the change of life or menopause.

Chronic Mastitis.

A third disorder is called chronic mastitis or long continued inflammation of the breasts. This condition, as a rule, does not cause any pain and may produce a watery secretion from the nipples. Lumps may be felt in the breasts. There is in severe cases a chance that cancer may develop later on.

In all instances in which a swelling develops in the breast, there should be no hesitation in having an examination made at once so as to determine what condition is present, and so that life-saving treatment may be employed as early as possible, if necessary.

Dave Boone Says:

A FELLER can get cross-eyed and dizzy these days just trying to follow Harry Truman. It calls for radar.

* * *

He says upping wages some more is just another bulge and no break in the hold-the-line policy and represents "no departure from the general wage-price formula" and while you're trying to figure that one out, he gives his approval to a speech by Henry Wallace blasting Jimmy Byrnes and yet insisting that it doesn't blast him at all.

* * *

* * *

This era may go down in history as the era of the multiple bulges. Rarely have there been so many bulges in so many places. It's getting hard to tell a government policy from a repaired piece of garden hose.

Fear Health of Secretary Byrnes May Necessitate His Resignation

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Friends of Secretary of State Byrnes have received word that he may have to resign shortly after the end of the Paris peace conference—for reasons of health.

The news has come as a great blow to President Truman who has leaned heavily on Jimmy Byrnes. There was a time last winter when the two men did not agree, but they have been cooperating closely ever since.

Byrnes' doctors have told him that he might be able to continue as secretary of state provided he took long and periodic rests. However, Byrnes does not believe he should do this. Cordell Hull used to spend several months a year away from his office. In 1942, our first year in the war, he was away a total of six months.

Byrnes, however, has told intimates that conducting the foreign affairs of the United States today is a constant, day-to-day job.

He does not feel that a secretary of state can be off the job a minute, and he does not believe it would be fair to the American people for him to take a prolonged rest.

For instance, immediately after the Paris peace conference is to be the assembly of the United Nations, now already late. After that comes the Pan American security conference to be held in Rio de Janerio, also late. Following that comes the regular Pan American conference, to say nothing of various meetings of the United Nations security council.

Best Secretary of State.

Byrnes has been hopping back and forth across the Atlantic ever since he became secretary of state. In fifteen months he has made seven round trips. Cordell Hull, in 12 long years, made only one air flight across the Atlantic, plus two leisurely steamship trips to Latin America.

In Paris, Byrnes has worked at a terrific pace. Sitting in the peace conference all day, keeping on the alert to watch the moves of rival delegates, is a gruelling job. It would wear out a younger man. But by going to bed every night immediately after dinner, Byrnes has kept going.

However, he is no longer young—68—and when the peace conference closes he will have to decide whether to follow his doctors' advice and resign, or face eventualities.

Note—This observer, who has covered the state department as a newsman since the Coolidge administration, believes Byrnes is doing about the most effective job under the most difficult circumstances of any secretary of state since Charles Evans Hughes.

Monty's Politics.

Some of those who served in the American command in Europe are lifting their eyebrows over the U. S. visit of dapper, publicity-wise Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery.

Seared in their minds during those bloody months in Eurooe are certain events involving the famed Monty which personally they would like to forget, but which nationally they hope won't be forgotten—especially in view of the fear of impending war.

General Patton's officers, for instance, remember Patton's race up the west coast of Sicily in contrast to Montgomery's snail's pace up the east coast. Nobody can blame a commander for having hard luck or necessarily going slow. But what only a few officers around Patton know, and what has never been published is the telegram he received from the vaunted Montgomery.

Montgomery actually sent Patton a telegram asking him to halt his offensive and wait until he, Monty, caught up. In other words, American troops were going too fast for Monty.

He was afraid Patton would envelop not only the enemy, but the British army. Inside fact is that Patton pretended he never received the telegram, showed it only to a few top aides, later told Monty it never arrived. Patton's army kept on moving.

"Monty Pivots."

Later, in the Normandy offensive, General Omar Bradley's officers recall all too vividly how Monty was supposed to break through at Caen, but sat there day after day, yelling at Eisenhower for more troops (American troops). Finally Bradley, Patton and Joe Collins made the American breakthrough at St. Lo, leaving Monty still sitting at Caen.

The British papers all this time were featuring headlines: "Monty Pivots At Caen." Actually all the pivoting he did was to break up a few tanks in the Normandy hedgerows.

Shortly after that Eisenhower made Gen. Bradley top field commander, giving him a higher place than Montgomery—a shift that brought such a roar from the British press and Mr. Churchill, that, later, Eisenhower took two armies away from Bradley and gave them to Montgomery.

These and other still untold chapters of the European theater cannot be chalked up to accidents of war, according to officers who were there, but to the politics of war.

And in view of the international alarm felt by military men in Washington and London, it has been suggested by lesser lights in the Pentagon building that now might be a good time to ask Monty whether, if there ever is a next time, "politics" will be ruled out. They think it's better to ask these questions now than later.

Phony Newsmen.

Secret Service still has under surveillance in Bermuda a weird young couple who crashed the Truman party posing as reporters for Life magazine.

The couple, a man of about 25 and a sexy brunette posing as his wife, asked copious, foolish questions of press secretary Charlie Ross, wanted exclusive photos of the president, finally gave themselves away by asking the naval officer in charge of radioing press copy to let them read all the dispatches previously sent by the 23 other newsmen.

The naval officer let the couple read the dispatches—though he had no business to do so. This aroused newspaper suspicion and started an eventual investigation. Finally, Secret Service arrested the couple, found they were traveling under phony names, were living out of wedlock in a $35-a-day suite in Bermuda, had never done any newspaper work. They are still being watched in Bermuda.

Wallace Continues As New Deal Spokesman.

WASHINGTON — Henry Wallace's Madison Square Garden speech, in many ways a most significant and controversial document, represented the beginning of a personal campaign by him within the administration to modify the "get-tough-with-Russia" attitude.

Instead he would substitute a more reasonable and strictly American policy, playing no favorites, and not tying up with anyone else irrevocably, with particular emphasis in this respect on the British.

His speech clearly was aimed at Secretary Brynes and his recent conduct of foreign policy. Mr. Wallace's friends so regarded it. For that reason it might be expected to produce repercussions within the administration.

But President Truman, who read the speech in advance and announced at a press conference that he approved it in its entirety, did not regard the Wallace thesis as a departure from the Byrnes policy.

This left some mystification. For a careful reading of Mr. Wallace's remarks seems to indicate some important differences, notably over the "get-tough-with-Russia" attitude, which he said would accomplish nothing, and the recent close alliance with the British. The secretary said bluntly that "to make Britain the key to our foreign policy would be, in my opinion, the height of folly."

The Wallace speech was prepared carefully after long deliberation and thought. It is known that the secretary of commerce privately has disapproved of the Byrnes policy and that one of the chief reasons he has remained in the cabinet was to be able to exert his influence for a change. That has been a deep personal concern. At times he has been much discouraged over the course of both foreign and domestic policy, and this has leaked out to provoke sporadic rumors that he might resign.

His New York speech was an attempt to stem the seemingly rising tide of anti-Russian feeling in the country and the war talk which has become absurd and ridiculous, and to bring the people back to the practical realities.

He feels confident that the two nations can get along, with cooperation on each side. He recognized frankly the conflict of ideology, but accepted that as a fact that must be borne. Whether we like it or not, he said, "the Russians will try to socialize their sphere of influence just as we try to democratize our spheres of influence," which include Germany and Japan.

He thinks that gradually the two nations will come closer together in their common philosophies, with the Russians forced to grant more and more personal freedom as we become more absorbed with problems of social-economic justice.

Whether by design or not, Mr. Wallace—the last of the old New Deal crowd in the cabinet — also outlined a philosophy for the New Deal wing of the Democratic party which has been so badly confused by recent developments. These include the ruthlessness of Russia in moving into Europe, the activities of a few Communists who have been effective from key places in labor unions in fomenting discord, and, on the other hand, the disturbing war talk that is so chilling.

While criticizing the "get-tough-with-Russia" attitude, he was equally insistent that Russia must stop her conniving against us in various parts of the world, as we must stop scheming against Russia.

Also that she stop teaching that her form of Communism must triumph ultimately, by force if necessary; and that we must be certain "that Russia is not carrying on territorial expansion or world domination through native Communists faithfully following every twist and turn of the Moscow party line."

These strictures could not have been pleasing to the Communists and party liners in his audience at the rally of the National Citizens PAC and the Independent Citizens' Committee of the Arts and Sciences.

But they were encouraging to progressive forces, in unions and elsewhere, who have been trying to put an end to Communist influence in a few unions and organizations by ousting them from key places of power, not always with too great success.

One Man's Opinion

—By WALTER KIERNAN

THERE was no meat around for Sunday dinner but we have OPA testimony that price controls are being well observed. We are happy about that . . . even if a little weaker.

* * *

During this emergency we have turned to a salad of old pamphlets with vinegar dressing. You take two of the "we demand meat controls" pamphlets . . . shred . . . garnish with bits of "congress must act to restore OPA" pamphlets and serve damp.

Next on the program will be the complaints from the groups who plugged for the controls that their members can't work if they don't get meat.

Farmer's Diary: "A Real Country Home."

OCCASIONALLY one finds a farmstead that seems a model of the old rural architecture of pioneer times. The plain simple honest way of life left its mark—— and although some claim it has disappeared from the face of the earth, one has only to travel awhile among the farmers to find out different.

The other evening, I drove on an errand down a narrow rugged little back road that wound along the hill. Below, along the stream, big spruces grew. Above, out of the rocky banks, stately oaks and maples arched, and ferns dripped from between the mossy rocks.

At the foot of this road, a small stable stands, that in early days was used for a gristmill, and a little farther on is an old farm home that has always impressed me by its quaint serene atmosphere. Very often a flock of white ducks, on a summer day, floats and paddles about in the clear flowing stream at the edge of the neat lawn. White stones edge the path to the house and the rustic arch over the gate is a mat of vines.

Tonight dim light shone through the transom as I knocked at the oldfashioned paneled door. The knob turned, and a kindly, gray-haired lady invited me in. A big Aladdin lamp was on the table and on a high shelf I noticed another oldstyle low-based lamp. The hasps on doors inside were those in use a century ago . . . jambs and finishings appeared to be hand planed—walls were of plaster mixed with hair. The old-time spacious fireplace had been boarded up, but the solid mantelpiece still held the kitchen clock.

I sat by the table and visited with the old lady and her daughter. The husband, now an invalid, was early abed.

"My husband was born at this place 70 years ago," she told me, when I asked—"I've lived here 40 years . . . he brought me here right after we were married". Her kindly face kindled for a moment. Memories have a way of sifting the precious and pleasant happenings of life.

"We've farmed our forty acres, and always had good crops except when frost came too soon. The land is good, but low, and the house is very old and not so grand, but we like it here." She spoke these words with a humble pride that was eloquent. Forty years of living here and a wealth of overtones spoke between the heart throbs.

When I left I heard a cowbell tinkle up the wooded hill, and caught the damp fragrance of the dark green spruce. The thrifty vegetable garden behind the picket fence lay wet with dew and the hedge of hibiscus bushes folded broad petals in the moonlight. Nodding beds of petunias by the garden fence were strangely fragrant as I passed.

A FRIEND ADVISES

Advice, no matter what the stake,
Is easier to give than take.
—Old Mother Nature.

Hardly had Reddy Fox, scratched, sore, with a painful hind foot in which was a sharp thorn he could not pull out, limped out of sight than Little Wobblenose saw his new acquaintance, the Wood Mouse, peeping out at him from beneath a fern.

"Has he really gone?" asked the Mouse in a squeaky sort of whisper.

"I hope so," replied the little Rabbit, "and I hope I never see him again."

"You will," squeaked the Mouse, coming out into the path. "You'll see him often. Just make sure that he doesn't see you when you don't see him. You were lucky."

"How lucky?" asked the little Rabbit.

"That you didn't run out of that bramble-tangle when he crawled in after you. He would have caught you then," said the Mouse. "Or perhaps you were smart rather than just lucky," he added tactfully.

"There was no safe place to go," said Little Wobblenose simply.

"And you were smart enough to know it," said the Mouse.

"Where were you all the time?" asked the little Rabbit with sudden curiosity.

"That is a personal matter. Never ask any one where their hiding places are," squeaked the Mouse rather severely. Then seeing that the Small Rabbit appeared somewhat troubled, he added more kindly, "Hiding places are secrets, or should be. You'll probably have some of your own soon and then you will understand. You're a smart little Rabbit, but you have a great deal to learn, a very great deal. This is the only safe place you know of. Am I right?"

"Yes," agreed Little Wobblenose.

"You must find two or three other places just as safe. You really must. You can't stay in here all the time," said the Mouse.

"But I can always run back to it," protested Wobblenose.

"My dear young Rabbit, how little you know," squeaked the Mouse. "You think you can always get back, but you'll find that this isn't so. Sooner or later a Fox, or some one else with a taste for little Rabbits, will get between you and those friendly briars. That is as sure as that the Black Shadows will creep out from the Purple Hills as soon as jolly bright Mr. Sun goes to bed. What will you do then?"

"I don't know," confessed the small Rabbit.

"I'll tell you," squeaked the Mouse. "You'll be caught and eaten. You will furnish some one a dinner. That is, you will unless you know of another safe place near by. The more such places you know of the longer you are likely to live. Take the advice of one who knows and before you do anything also look for some safe hiding places. You are going to need them. Take it from me, you are going to need them."

"I suppose you have several

"Has he really gone?" asked the Mouse in a squeaky sort of whisper

such places," ventured Little Wobblenose, trying not to show too much curoisity.

"You'd be surprised," squeaked the Mouse. "I have a lot of them. I wouldn't be here now if I didn't have. I wouldn't have lived to grow up."

The small Rabbit found it hard to believe that one so much smaller than himself could possibly be grown-up. "Are you really and truly grown-up?" he asked.

"Didn't I tell you that I am a great grandfather, maybe a great great grandfather?" squeaked the Mouse. "And that is something you'll never be unless you learn, and learn fast, that the Great World is full of dangers, especially for small folks like us. Though many will look for us nobody will look out for us; we must look out for ourselves. Never go far from a safe hiding place and always know the shortest way to it."

The Mouse suddenly darted back under a fern out of sight. Little Wobblenose looked this way and that way but saw nothing to be afraid of. He continued to sit right there in the path.

Civilians Retain Army Uniforms

WASHINGTON —(UP)— Add to reconversion tie-ups: the Army estimates that 1,000,000 civilians refuse to strip the military finery from the uniforms they're wearing.

This, the provost marshal general's office says, is illegal. It's all right for a man to put on army clothes. Maybe he bought them in a surplus property store. Maybe he's a discharged veteran still without a civilian wardrobe. But when a civilian wears a uniform that sports any military insignia—from brass buttons on up to gold braid — the uniform becomes illegal.

New York Notes

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

A STAR IS BORN — A few weeks ago a Hollywood agent named Johnny Maschio, who is small, dark and warm-eyed in a George Raft way, lunched at Romanoff's with Norma Shearer. Luncheon with the cameo-faced Norma is pleasure at any time, but this was business, too—Johnny was trying to nab her as a client, and as they toyed with their cracked crabs, visions of her signature on a blue-sheathed contract danced in his head, as beautiful to contemplate as Paulette Goddard in shorts.

During the meal Norma opened her handbag and took out a couple of snapshots of a pretty girl. She told Johnny she had been skiing in the mountains with her husband, Marty Arrouge, and the owner of the inn where they stayed had given her these pictures of his daughter and asked her to see if she could interest someone in Hollywood in giving the girl a chance in pictures.

Johnny was still concentrating on Norma, the fountain pen, and the dotted line, dreaming of getting them all together, and he gave the photographs a polite "Uh-huh, very cute" but nothing more. They were still in evidence on the table when Lew Wasserman, one of the big boys at MCA, dropped by to say hello. He inquired about the snapshots, listened to Norma's identification of the girl, and put one of the pictures in his pocket.

* * *

The scene shifts to Wasserman's office. He studies the picture of the innkeeper's daughter, summons Leviss Green, one of his assistants, and orders Green to track her down. The process takes a week. Finally talent bloodhound Green discovers the girl is staying in Hollywood. He gets her address. He sends for her. Long shot of girl entering MCA offices, looking hopeful. Closeup of clock on wall. Pan to Leviss Green. His mouth is slightly open.

* * *

The clock on the wall said 2 p. m. when the girl walked through the office door. Green gave her one long up-and-down look, pushed her into his car, and drove to Metro Goldwyn Mayer. At 2:45 p. m., without even the formality of a screen test, the innkeeper's daughter was signed to an MGM contract. Close-up of two pages dropping from a calendar. Forty-eight hours after the contract signing Green heard that Roy Roland, the director, and Jack Cummings, the producer, were looking for a girl to play opposite Van Johnson in "Romance of Rosie Ridge." Green took the girl to see them. They nodded. Just a few days ago MGM announced that a newcomer, Jeanette Leigh, had been signed to play opposite Van Johnson in "Romance of Rosie Ridge." Johnny Maschio went out looking for a stone wall, found one, and dashed his head against it rapidly and hard, several times.

Sounds simple, doesn't it? A pretty girl, a snapshot, an agent with an eye, stardom. Much easier than a fiction writer would ever dare to make it.
